

NOT THE TIME.

The time for a newspaper to attack a corrupt political Boss is when he is in the height of his power.

It is a glorious thing for a man with his pen to be able to rout squadrons of corruption and political venality, headed by a man whose every body fears.

It is not a praiseworthy piece of journalism to jump on the prostrate form of a boss whose power has departed, as is now the case with Buckley. The Hays Valley Advertiser hits the nail squarely when it says:

We see no occasion for the terrible howl that is being made against C. A. Buckley. He is no worse, as a man or a politician, than he was ten years ago. Fully ten years ago, we appealed to the daily press to aid the organized workmen in putting down the boss rule—and not one of them would sacrifice the political advertising, controlled by the bosses. Not one of them. And now they think he is down, and done for, they want to claim the merit of having destroyed him. It is a false claim. The dailies never had the honesty or courage to attack him until they believed his influence on the wane and thought it would be safe and profitable to strike at him. They deserve no credit for their eleventh hour repentance—none at all. We decline to enthrone over their attacks on "the Boss," at whose feet they have so long crouched and whined. We don't owe Mr. Buckley one dime—and we won't attack him, not now.

WILLIAM IN ENGLAND.

Although Emperor William of Germany has received a magnificent welcome in England, it is not probable that it will prove to be a good thing for Great Britain. It is an enormously costly affair, and may cause considerable restrictions in Her Majesty's purse strings for a long time to come.

Neither the German rulers nor the German people have any sentiment or interests in common with those of the English. Their politics, social conditions and customs are wholly unlike, and their commercial interests are opposite and hostile. As for the family and domestic influences, which should be in the way of harmonizing political differences, there is reason to believe they operate in the other direction.

This show of official welcome is a farce; if it had been real there would have been no occasion for such a parade of glitter, pomp and ostentation.

There is but little room for doubt that the English are already eager to speed him as a parting guest.

What Nevada needs as much as anything is new blood, men with push and energy, whose ideas are not cramped or narrowed by constant application to business transactions after the style of twenty years ago. This is a progressive age, and the man or community who does not keep up with the times is sure to get left in the grand scramble for the front seat so to speak. The old silurians who are hanging to the garments of those who are trying to do something, should be his on the head with a stuffed club and knocked back into the rut they have worn in the sands of time, and not be allowed to interfere in the march of progress. The class spoken of is found in every community and Nevada has more than her share. These old back numbers are no good to themselves or the town and should be put to peddling cheap gossip—an occupation they are much better fitted for than shaping the ends of a prosperous community.—Gazette.

Out of 126 lynchings in the United States last year, 114 were from the Southern States. Louisiana reported 8 and Texas 24.
